Ladder Safety Video

Ladders are one of the most commonly used pieces of equipment in almost any work environment. From common stepladders to sophisticated extension ladders, they can be found almost everywhere. Training products on “Ladder Safety in Construction Environments” show that because they are so common, many employees take ladders for granted, and do not take the appropriate precautions when using ladders.