What is Constructive Dismissal – Canada – HR Course

We often meet with employees who face unwanted changes to their employment situation imposed on them by their employer. Sometimes this may be a demotion or decrease in pay. In other cases, there may be a number of less drastic changes to the terms of employment, but to such an extent the employee is left feeling the employer is wanting the employee to leave.